Governance

Governance Gold

Governance Gold is designed to be kept by clerks to form a library of extra useful advice. This edition reminds you of the importance of letting us know of the deaths of Friends or active attenders.

Michael Booth, Church Government Adviser, michaelsb@quaker.org.uk, 020 7663 1023

1. Review of Quaker appeals process

Quaker faith & practice gives Friends the right to appeal to Meeting for Sufferings about decisions of an area meeting which affect them personally (section 4.25). Meeting for Sufferings is currently reviewing the process for this and has appointed a small group. That group has come up with a number of questions to help it consider if the current process works well or how it could be changed. If you would like to assist the group, then please get in touch with me. The group will need responses by the end of June.

Michael Booth, michaelsb@quaker.org.uk, 020 7663 1023

Please include this in notices, or pass it to Friends who you know might wish to respond. Note the short deadline.

2. Our faith in action: Quaker work in 2016

Our faith in action gives a brief taste of the range of work carried out by Britain Yearly Meeting on behalf of Quakers in Britain last year. We hope that all Friends will get a chance to read it and that they will feel proud of what has been achieved in their name.

Our faith in action and the 2016 financial statements are available online at www.quaker.org.uk/annualreport. For paper copies please email resources@quaker.org.uk or phone 020 7663 1015.

Please show Friends the enclosed paper copy, let them know where to find it and encourage them to read it.

6. Review of mental wellbeing at YFGM

YFGM (Young Friends General Meeting) is conducting a review of how attending our gatherings affects participants' mental wellbeing. While we anticipate that our events have a largely positive impact on attendees, there may be areas for us to improve. We would like feedback from anyone who has attended YFGM in recent years, no matter how many times they came.

Our online survey is available on the home page of the YFGM website at www.yfgm.quaker.org.uk

For paper copies of the survey, please contact the YFGM coordinator at YFGM@quaker.org.uk

Please encourage anyone who has attended YFGM in recent years to complete our online survey.
